

MLA

Modern Language Association Citation Style

The following guide is based on the MLA Handbook for Writers of Research Papers (Seventh Edition) at call number LB2369 G53 2009, and MLA Style Manual and Guide to Scholarly Publishing at call number PN147 G444 2008. These are available in our library Reference (non-circulating) section. This guide is also based on Archer Library's MLA guide, Western University's Graduate Resource Centre MLA Guide, as well as Purdue University's Online Writing Lab (<https://owl.english.purdue.edu/owl/>). Please consult these manuals to cite materials not listed below.

Citations – why use them?

Basically, if you do not use a citation, you are committing the crime of plagiarism. This is where you are using someone else's words or ideas as your own. A citation tells the reader where you have gotten your ideas and/or quotes. It consists of the title of the work, the author(s) name, date of publication, and then depending on the format (book versus journal versus website, etc.), place of publication, publisher, volume, page numbers, URL, etc.

“Medium of Publication” is how the material is presented, whether in Print, as a DVD, an MP3, on the Web, or even a JPEG file. You will probably find that the most commonly used Mediums of Publication are Print and Web.

BOOKS

Book – One Author

General Format:

Author last name, First name. Title of book. Place of Publication: Publisher, date. Medium of publication.

Example:

Knockwood, Isabelle. Out of the Depths: The Experiences of Mi'kmaw Children at the Indian Residential School at Shubenacadie, Nova Scotia. Winnipeg: Fernwood Publishing, 2015. Print.

Author name in text: ...as Knockwood demonstrates (18-25) ...

Author name in reference: ...this point has been argued (Knockwood 18-25)...

Citing entire text: ...but Knockwood has offered another view ...

Book – Two to Three Authors

Give author names in the same order as on the title page, not necessarily in alphabetical order.

Author name in text: ...as the American Psychological Association (35-37) determined...

Author name in reference: ... as has been determined (American Psychological Association 40)...

It is always best to include a long name in text to not interrupt readability with a long reference

- If the Corporate Group is often abbreviated, introduce this abbreviation in your first citation:

Author name in text: ...as the American Psychological Association (APA 35-37) determined ...

- ...and in subsequent citations: ... as has been stated by APA (40) ...

Author name in reference: ... as has been discovered (American Psychological Association [APA] 35-37)...

Author name in text: ...as Forget suggested ... (2) ...

Author name in reference: ... as has been discovered (Forget 2)...

Digital Files

In General: a digital file is able to be viewed independently from the web. This could be a PDF file, a document that a colleague has produced, an image you received as an attachment, a sound recording, or an electronic book. Generally, you would locate the type of work you want to cite in the manual, follow its instructions, and in the place reserved for the “Medium of publication,” insert the digital file format. If the file format is not known, simply add “Digital file.”

E-Book

If the work is a PDF file with page numbers, cite the page numbers in text. Otherwise, do not cite page numbers as they may not appear consistently to others. If the work has stable chapters, those may be cited.

General Format:

Author last name, First name. Title of book. Place of Publication: Publisher, date. Medium of publication.

Example:

Alexie, Sherman. The Lone Ranger and Tonto fistfight in heaven. New York: Grove Press, 2005. EPUB file.

Wilson, Pamela and Michelle Stewart, eds. Global Indigenous Media: Cultures, Poetics, and Politics. Durham: Duke University Press, 2008. Web. 16 July 2015.

Author name in text: ...Coates has argued this point (58-62)...

Author name in reference: ... as has been projected (Wilson and Stewart 19) ...

E-book Chapter

If the work is a PDF file with page numbers, cite the page numbers. Otherwise, do not cite page numbers as they may not appear consistently to others. If the work has stable chapters, those may be cited.

General Format:

Author last name, Author first name. “Title of chapter.” Title of book. Editor, compiler or translator (if applicable). Place of publication: Publisher, year. Pages. Title of Database. Medium of publication. Date of access.

Example:

Gilley, Brian Joseph. “Two-spirit Powwows and the Search for Social Acceptance in Indian Country.” Powwow. Ed. Clyde Ellis, Luke E. Lassiter, and Gary H. Dunham. Lincoln: U of Nebraska P, 2005. 224-240. Project MUSE. Web. 20 July 2015.

Author name in text: ... as Gilley related (226-27) ...

Author name in reference: ... as has been recorded (Gilley 226-27) ...

Graphic Novel

Many graphic novels are the work of collaboration. According to the MLA 7th edition, “Begin the entry for such a work with the name of the person whose contribution is most relevant to your research, following it with a label identifying the person’s role. List other collaborators after the title in the order in which they appear on the title page, also with labels identifying their roles (166).”

For example, if you were mostly referencing an illustrator in your paper, in your works cited list, you would use the illustrator’s name first.

General Format:

Author last name, author first name, role. Title. Role and Name. Role and Name (if applicable). Place of Publication: Publisher, date. Medium of publication.

Example:

Henderson, Scott B., illus. Seven Generations: A Plains Cree Saga. Written by David Alexander Robertson. Winnipeg: HighWater Press, 2012. Print.

OR, if the author is more relevant to your work, you would format it thus for the Works Cited page:

Robertson, David Alexander, writer. Seven Generations: A Plains Cree Saga. Illus. by Scott B. Henderson. Winnipeg: HighWater Press, 2012. Print.

Some graphic novels are part of a series and have their own title.

Example:

Robertson, David Alexander, writer. Stone. Illus. by Scott B. Henderson. Winnipeg: HighWater Press, 2010. Print. Book 2 of Seven Generations: A Plains Cree Saga.

Author name in text or reference: Depending on your focus, the author or illustrator may be cited.

Electronic sources

Website

MLA no longer requires the use of URLs. However, please check with your instructor as some instructors may want it used.

Not all information in the General Format may be available. Include as many of the following components as possible.

General Format:

Name of author, editor, compiler or translator. Name of Website. Name of publisher, institution, organization or sponsor of the site, date of publication/copyright. Medium of Publication. Date of access. <Web address (if required by instructor)>.

Example:

Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada. Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada. Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada, N.d. Web. 12 Aug. 2015.

Author name in text: ...as stated on the Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada website ...

Author name in reference: ...as has been discussed (Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada)

Website Document

Many websites have PDF documents, common on organization websites. Although MLA does not require the use of website addresses, the example here is shown with a website address, as many corporations' reports are not easily found through search engines if they have been archived. Please check with your professor as to whether or not they would like them included.

If the document is a PDF document that has stable page numbers, page numbers may be referenced.

General Format:

Name of author, editor, or organization. Title of document. Place of Publication: Publisher, date. Title of the database or Web site. Medium of publication (Web). Date of access. <Web address>.
